Response to Amendment

1. Applicant's amendment and arguments of June 30, 2008 have been entered and have been fully considered.
2. The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. Claims 1, 2, 4-14, 16, and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Paul.

Paul discloses a dispenser for controlled release of volatile substances comprising a reservoir covered on its top face and on its bottom face by a first control element 50 that exerts a control function that is dependent on the physical properties of the fragrance and the material properties of the control element and fully covered by a second control element 22 in which the second element is impermeable and is in the form of a film that possesses gaps 52. The number of gaps as recited would have been matters of design choice since the device having such modifications would still carry out the function of the prior art. The thickness and shapes as recited in claims 11 and 12 would have been matters of design choice since such a modification involves a mere change in the size or shape of a component which is generally recognized as being within the level of ordinary skill in the art. Regarding claims 13 and 14, it has been held that a recitation with respect to the manner in which a claimed apparatus is intended to be employed does not differentiate the claimed apparatus from a prior art apparatus satisfying the claimed structural limitations and the duration as recited in claim 17 would also have been a matter of design choice.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments filed June 30, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Since element 22 of Paul is of impermeable material and has a flap 51 which has to be removed to dispense the scent, the element 22 is a "control element." Also, claim 1 of the instant invention claims a film that possesses gaps but does not recite the location of the gaps. Therefore, the prior art reads on the structural limitations as claimed.

Conclusion

5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
